The Chinese Communists are supplying ammunition and medical supplies to Ho Chi Minh in 50-ton shipments carried by junks from Peihai to Vinh, Indochina. The ammunition is collected from villages in Kwangtung at no cost. A 500 percent profit is made on the medical supplies. The junks bring back tin ingots.

Comment. The difference between this report and the arms shipments covered [REDACTED] is slight; however, Peihai has not been mentioned as place of origin nor has the profit on medical supplies been given. Also, the only mode of transportation given has been motor vessels with a carrying capacity of 300 tons.

This document is hereby regraded to CONFIDENTIAL in accordance with the letter of 16 October 1978 from the Director of Central Intelligence to the Archivist of the United States.
